Family Survival, A Do-It Yourself Affair, Says Smith

Family Survival may be a do-it-yourself affair in natural or nuclear disaster, Guidelines on family preparedness are in the new bulletin 'Your Family Survival Plan' now available from the County Extension Service office in Appomattox.

County Agent Jim Smith suggests that this attractive fill-in-the-blank type publication be posted in every home.

The single sheet is designed as a constant reminder of home preparedness progress. It tells the family at a glance what survival steps have been taken and what still needs to be done in bringing the family up to readiness for emergencies.

One side of this simple, personalized plan gives the householder recommendations on amounts of food and water to be stored. Certain types of foods are listed as best for prolonged storage. By marking on the plan the type and amount of food set aside for emergencies, the family always knows its degree of preparedness. With storage dates recorded, food can be replaced periodically to avoid spoilage and waste.

Special food and medical needs for babies, the aged and others can also be entered on the form. Entries are allotted for bedding clothing, sanitation, cooking and special equipment. The family can mark what is on hand and what must be acquired. The plan also shows which items will be stored in the shelter or emergency area and which will be gathered when the emergency occurs.

Family immunization records can be entered, along with first aid and other survival courses completed.

The reverse side of the plan gives recommendations for shelter construction or for improving present home structures. The householder can compare his present facilities with shelter protection standards of common materials and decide what has to be done to improve his chances of survival.

Smith suggests that you write, phone or visit the County office of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Service today for a free copy of 'Your Family Survival Plan.'

Pastor Addresses Junior Tri-Hi-Y

The meeting of the Junior Tri-Hi-Y, held in the High School auditorium on Jan. 10, was called to order by the president, Janet Moses. Nancy Jane Abbitt gave the devotional. O. D. Moore, club pastor, who gave an inspiring talk entitled, "What the Church Means to Me."

The club decided to have a bake sale and perhaps later on, a dance. The president appointed a committee to find out more about the bake sale and another committee to put up posters around the school on Clean Scholarship.

4-H Discusses Civil Defense

The Vera 4-H was held January 8, 1964. Brenda Gunter read the Bible and Chris Garrett led in prayer.

Then we stood and pledged allegiance to the flag.

Miss Berger handed out our record books, and gave us a Safety book too. She explained the things on it to us.

Mr. Moody gave us a talk on Civil Defense., and showed us the supplies we should have in case that we ever have an Atomic War.

The meeting was over with everyone standing and saying the 4-H Pledge.

Piney Ridge

'Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God. Therefore glorify God in your body.' Cor. 6:19-20.

We are glad to know that Mr. Willie Price is able to get out and go a little after being sick for many weeks.

Mr. Lawrence Webber has returned home after spending a week in Lynchburg General Hospital, where he was a patient with a broken back. He is going along fine.

Due to the bad weather only a few attended church services at Piney Ridge Sunday. Rev. Paught brought a wonderful sermon out, on 'The Living Word'.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture added over 50,000 acres to its National Forest Wilderness System. Newest addition is the Mokelumne Wild Area in the Central Sierras, 60 miles east of Sacramento.

Rocks

The weather is very cold and rough here.

Sympathy is extended Mrs. Chap Harvey and family in their great loss.

A number from here attended the funeral of Mr. Chap Harvey last Tuesday.

Mrs. Witt Baldwin was rushed to Lynchburg General Hospital Wednesday night.

Mrs. R. L. Jennings suffered a heart attack Monday night and was rushed to Lynchburg General Hospital

A number called to see Mrs. Mary Inge last week.

The Demonstration Club held its January meeting with Mrs. Marks, Florence and Barbara on Thursday night.

A. T. Anderson accompanied Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Almond home Thursday for a few days.

Mrs. Clarence Richardson fell on the ice last week and got a black eye.

Mrs. Clarence Richardson and Otis were visited Mrs. Beady Simmons who is sick, awhile Saturday morning.

Mrs. Joe Almond and Jane and Mrs. Jennie Almond were in Lynchburg Saturday.

Mrs. John Ranson spent an afternoon with Mrs. Walter Ranson last week.

Friends were shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. R. L. Jennings's Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Richardson were in Lynchburg Friday night expressing sympathy to the Jennings's family in their great loss.

'In spite of the rough weather Sunday a large number attended the funeral of Mrs. R. L. Jennings at Evergreen Methodist Church.

Agriculture Men Hear Jennings

Professional agricultural workers of Appomattox county met on Tuesday at 3:15 p.m. at Appomattox High School to 'further cooperation' in their activities within the county, according to Joel Artman, district forester with the Virginia Division of Forestry. These workers include Farmer's Home Administration representative Hunter P. Evans; County agent, J. A. Smith; Assistant Agent Dan W. Moody, ASCS office manager Newton Jennings Soil Conservationists John Harrison and John Goin; Fire Warden David M. Smith; and Vocational Agriculture instructors, Richard Carter, Henry B. Pack, and Dennis Torrence. Newton Jennings, office manager for ASCS, spoke to the group on Tuesday. Plans are underway for quarterly meetings of these professional men.

'Human Element' Vital To Success Says Harrison

"The human element" determines progress in soil and water conservation," said John Harrison, in speaking last week of the organization of watershed associations. Plans for the Little Falling River Watershed project are being studied by state authorities, he said, with the possibility of some construction on the project this summer.

Harrison said that local owners must all agree to a project and must grant easements in an area above a body of water, also space for a short dam, and then sufficient land to justify the protection offered by water storage. "If even one individual refuses to cooperate, he said, "we must find alternate areas by which to construct conservation projects." He urges the continuing cooperation of county landowners in the various watershed projects underway and under consideration.

Club Members Planted 126 Acres Forest Land During 1963

During 1963 Forestry Club members in Appomattox County either planted or improved a total of 126 acres of forest land, according to Jim Smith County Agent. Twenty landowners and young people took part in the contest this year.

Forestry Clubs, sponsored by County Extension Forestry Committees in 11 counties in 1963, conducted forestry contests in which 282 club members participated. A total of 3,828 forest acres were planted or improved.

The purpose of the Forestry Club contests Smith stated is to create friendly competition among landowners in improving their woodlands. All members of a Forestry Club are encouraged to compete in the annual event. The completed projects are judged during the fall and prizes are selected. Awards for outstanding work are made at a recognition dinner soon after judging has been completed. Such awards are usually donated by local businessmen and the dinner sponsored by a wood-using industry.

Work done by the Forestry Clubs has added many acres of good forestry demonstrations in the 20 counties where they are operated. During the past five years alone, 1,492 contests have done forestry work on a total of 29,723 acres. Contestants may sign up now for the 1964 Contest. All professional agricultural workers have application forms.

PRIORITIES

e all live in a busy world re are a thousand things that ng out attention, our an est and our time. What shall at the top of the totem ? How shall we determine rity?

first the answer seems sim But not so. Try weighing es in the light of community s, as well as religious life. hoices are made priority has given even though no conn thought entered the deas to priority. For example I am a member of a reg

Along with others I agree is important to my community life. But the time and most factors enter sometimes n choices have to be made ense interest and the life and rest of the church. You see church is not the main and ation that calls for your and interest and dedica So you decide. The good de made here is that many es we decide in favor of the munity organizations to the ense of our religious life and est. When Christian leaders more time to these interests the church and its work.

values come into focus ugh we would not want to so many times we are re ing our witness in favor of community and civic. We saying we believe more in influence of these projects we do the work and ser of the church is the com ity and world.

e one likes to feel that our est and the work of the ch is in competition with the k of community life as such. it's at this point we reflect ities. Perhaps one answer lies in the setting up of some kind of machinery to have closer cooperation of the community and church life. For example, if the civic and fraternal life of our community would keep free Wednesday nights for church services and activities, this might help in the church in dropping other nights open for community service. As pastor of one church in the community, I surely don't want the community to feel that the church is in the way of its function. But by the same token, I don't like to feel that the civic and other life of the community is in competition with the purpose and work of the church.

So you see in the framework of these matters, a choice of priorities isn't as easy as it first appears.

What should be the basis of priorities? I would say the primary evaluation of Christ on this matter. He says, 'seek you first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things will be added unto you' Matt. 6:33. To the Christian genuine concern for Kingdom matters must have priority, and other matters must come under this. And where there are adjustments to be made surely the values of the Christian life cannot be ignored. Yes so often the number of interest is the first thing that goes in the rise of conflicts and priorities.

The church is an organism, rather an organization as such. This means then that a church had a head, a body, and is alive. Organization can be a dead thing unless it is the manifestation of life. The church is the Spiritual body of Christ of which He is the head. This means that those of us who have given our lives to Christ form the body of Christ. In this figure we have an understandable image of the church in our society. And it's in this light that we should give priority to the church — that is if we believe the church to be just what it is, the body of Christ.

I hope you will be found in your church at its stated meetings and you will give it first place in your life this year of 1964.

Seventh-day Adventist Church
Sabbath, Jan. 18, 1964 will be observed as "Religious Liberty Day" in the Appomattox Adventist Church. Pastor William E. Carpenter summarized recent trends in three areas of religious freedom, Sunday legislation ecumenical progress and Bible reading and prayer in public schools.

Nationwide interest in legislation to enforce Sunday observance has greatly increased since the 1961 Supreme Court action favoring Sunday laws. In 1959 only 11 states had introduced a total of 62 bills relating to Sunday legislation. Since Jan. 1963, 41 states have considered Sunday laws in some form, with nearly 259 bills being introduced "A universal church in which distinction between denominations would disappear seems to be developing the minister said. He declared that such church unity leads to less toleration for the minority groups who through doctrinal convictions choose to retain their distinctive beliefs. "The money contributed will be used to send "Liberty" magazine to influential people in this area and others. As one writer puts it, "A Storm Is Gathering." We must do something big. Invest in freedom now" the night cometh when no man can work' said Jesus St. John 9:4.

Moses Urges Fast Action On Bills

RICHMOND — The Virginia State heard a plea from its lawmakers this week that it speed up committee work on bills "to prevent the pile at the end."

Sen. Charles T. Moses, of Appomattox, made the plea for speedy committee action after a number of bills were introduced by various senators at the opening of the session. Most of the bills 'soon will be before the committees" and urged the committee chairmen to call meetings promptly.

That way Moses said, the bills can be handled by the committee — either killed or reported for floor action — and the Senate can move more smoothly during its session.
